

Dear Rose Tree Media School Community,
I wanted to share with you some very sad news. We learned overnight about the death of two of our high school students, Shane Wolff, a ninth-grade student, and Benjamin Strain, a student in our Linking Learning to Life Program. Both students were great students and people, and they were valued members of our school community. We informed the staff and students this morning and our counselors and psychologist are available to provide any needed support.

We are deeply saddened by the loss of these students to our school community and will make every effort to help you and your child as needed. I know that our RTM family will come together to support the families of each of these students and each other during this difficult time.

Additional resources for supporting your child can be found here. Please reach out if we can provide additional support to your child.

Sincerely,
Dr. Eleanor DiMarino-Linnen
Superintendent of Schools
